I always thought it's not right if you don't like your job, you don't want to go in the office, you don't think about it when you drive back from work... Since 2011 I was practicing some web-development for fun. Last year my friend suggested me to try ruby and after few hours I understood that it is what I like. Since then most of my free time I sit behind my computer and learn Ruby/Ruby on Rails, JS. I have no experience in that kind of job, last years I was working as a Senior Civil Engineer, but I think my passion to IT will help me progressing fast. I have a 16 years experience in Civil Engineering and lot of certificates, but I don't think It is relevant to the current position.
